

CARAL. The Oldest Civilization in America
 Daily departures, private service
 Cod-106

Located 184 km north of Lima on the Pan-American highway. Built by one of the most important civilizations on the planet, created by the organized work of its inhabitants in a territory with contrasting geographical configurations.

Many people know Cusco as the capital of the Inca empire and Machu Picchu as the land of one of the last Incas; But few still know that the Sacred City of Caral was built by the first political state that was formed in Peru 4,400 years before the Incas ruled.

Caral-Supe represents the oldest civilization in America, developed almost simultaneously with those of Mesopotamia, Egypt, India and China. The inhabitants of Peru were at least 1500 years ahead of those of Mesoamerica, the other civilizational focus of the six world-renowned, and by more than 3,000 years to the society that built the renowned Mayan cities.

The early development of the Caral-Supe society made it the oldest civilization in the New World, but, unlike other civilizing foci, such as Mesopotamia, Egypt and India, which exchanged knowledge and experiences, it achieved an unprecedented advance in complete isolation from her contemporaries in America and the Old World.

In Peru, the forms of economic, social and political organization of the populations of Caral-Supe had a strong impact on the history of the area; they transcended space and time, and laid the foundations of the socio-political system that the populations of the Central Andes would have.
